TELLS OF PASSING OF A RALEIGH SOLDIER

A letter to Mrs. Ray, from an English chaplain at a convalescent depot with the British in France dated October 8, is as follows:

"Dear Mrs. Ray: You already have heard officially of the death of your gallant boy but I thought you might like to hear something unofficial of the last days. He came down to the hospital here on Wednesday last. On Friday, I was visiting in the theater ward and just as I was passing out of the face as he lay in the bed nearest the door, so I turned back and went over to him. We had a few minutes' conversation. He was bright and cheerful and in spite of much pain, was bearing himself in a splendid, manly fashion. We prayed together and then I left him, expecting to see him the following morning, but the call 'home' came before then. Yesterday we laid him to rest in one of the most beautiful corners of France. He rests in the shade of a beautiful forest within sight of the Atlantic ocean. No more beautiful resting place would even you desire for your boy. Last week a Scotch mother came from the Perth mountains to see her son laid to rest in this spot, and as she looked around she said: 'It is a bonny spot,' and so it is. 'You may rest assured that all that could be done for your boy was done.

but it was impossible to keep him. And now he, who was so helpful to other men in pain and illness, has been called to his reward. His death was such as you may well take pride in. I pray that the Great Lover of mothers may bring His sweet comfort to you in these days."

ENOCH L. STAMEY NOW IN TRAINING SCHOOL.

Greensboro Soldier Has Recovered From Wound and Wants Commission as Officer.

Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Stamey Thursday received a letter, dated October 7, from their son, Sergt. Enoch L. Stamey, who was wounded in action on September 4, stating he had fully recovered from the wound and was now attending a French machine gun school, as a candidate for a commission. The letter brought reassuring news, as it was not known beforehand how seriously he was wounded. Sergeant Stamey was also slightly gassed, it is understood, but has recovered from the effect of this also.

Mrs. Roderick A. Stamey also received a letter from her husband, Captain Stamey, dated October 7, in which he stated he was in excellent health. Captain Stamey was formerly a member of the staff of the Greensboro Daily News.
